DRY WORK OF ANDY MELLON HELD 'FARCE'

Prohibitionists Accuse Secretary of Treasury of "Laying Down" on Job.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A fresh storm of attacks on the record of Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury today threatened to prolong senate discussion of the proposal for a $25,000,000 increase in prohibition enforcement funds and a $75,000,000 tax refund.

The third richest man in the world, who gave up his private business to direct the government's fiscal affairs, was accused of "laying down" on the job of enforcing prohibition. His record was described as a "farce" by dry leaders and he was accused of not trying to enforce the dry law.

The prohibition battle probably will be put a tempest in a teapot compared to the really serious criticism certain to be launched at his plea for $75,000,000 to repay refunded taxes. To date, during the Mellon rule in the treasury, the government has turned back $2,614,000,000 in refunds and credits on income taxes. Much of this money has gone to large corporations and to possessors of swollen incomes.

AGAINST SELECTION
Administration leaders saw in the dual attack on Mellon an indirect effort to keep him out of President-elect Hoover's cabinet. It was apparent the Democratic chieftains were whetting their words for Mellon, as Senator Harris (D) of Georgia, conducted the day attack and Senator McKellar (D) of Tennessee, prepared the tax refund assault.

Both subjects will be the basis, it was understood, of a fight against confirmation of Mellon should Hoover name him in the next cabinet.

The two items were contained in the first deficiency appropriation bill, a measure that usually enacted without debate. The bill also contained an $8,400,000 item for a new house office building and lesser emergency items.

PROPOSES DRY CUT
In an effort to save Mellon from further attack on the prohibition issue Senator Jones (R), of Washington, an administration dry, proposed to reduce the dry fund to $1,250,000 Senator Warren (R) of Wyoming, chairman of the senate appropriations committee, who led the fight against the $25,000,000 fund, immediately announced he would accept it. The $1,250,000 would be used chiefly to employ additional dry agents, although $250,000 would be used to "disseminate information" and pay "traveling expenses."

The tax refund matter long has been the subject of Democratic criticism. The refunds have been secretly, and except for members of the special congressional tax commission the details aren't even given to senators and representatives. If the taxpayer is satisfied, the refund can't even be aired in court. On one occasion Senator Couzens (R) of Michigan, directed an investigation into the subject but congress never took any action to change it.

KREISLER IN TRIPLE CRASH

Famous Violinist Among Injured In Wreck of Three
Trains In East.

ABERDEEN, Md., Jan. 18.—With four trainmen dead and another in a critical condition, Pennsylvania railroad officials today pushed a vigorous investigation into the triple wreck of two express trains and a freight a mile and a half from here late yesterday.

The first collision occurred at 4:40 p. m., when train No. 412, a combination mail-passenger train with eight coaches which had left Washington for Philadelphia at 3:05 p. m., crashed into the rear of extra freight No. 1472, pulling 99 cars. The passenger locomotive and the freight caboose were demolished and several freight cars were thrown across the southbound tracks. A few minutes later the crack southern express, No. 121, carrying passengers bound for Baltimore, Washington and the south, crashed into the wreckage. Railroad officials blamed the blinding fog for the first crash, but said they could not understand by some member of the train crews of the northbound passenger train or the northbound freight did not flag the oncoming southern express. The engineer and fireman of both passenger trains, whose testimony would be the most important to the investigators, are either dead or too badly injured to be questioned at present.

It was considered a miracle that no passengers were killed. According to railroad officials, not one passenger was injured seriously although many of them were shaken up when several coaches and three sleeping cars were derailed. Fritz Kreisler, famous violinist, was injured slightly.

At least 30 others, living in houses within a block and a half of the scene of the explosion, suffered bruises and shock when they were hurled from their beds by the force of the blast.

Two of the suspects, arrested immediately after the blast, are Joe Zangaro, 32, and Phil Guzman, 25. Identity of the third man, a cab driver, was not divulged by police.

Zangaro was found pinned under the wreckage in an alley back of the furniture store. Guzman was picked up unconscious a short distance from Zangaro.

The explosion, caused by fumes from five or six five-gallon cans of gasoline placed in the Garfield store, occurred exactly at 12:30 a. m., stopping a clock across the street at that time, police said.

That unskilled men handled the blasting was indicated by the fact that the damage instead of being centralized on the property of the man it was believed to have been aimed at was spread recklessly over an area of three blocks.

The blackmailing theory was adopted by police after they learned that children of John Garfield, owner of the music store, had confided to playmates recently that "bad men are trying to get money away from papa but he won't give it to them."

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Dawson and son Albert will leave Friday evening to spend the week-end with his brother-in-law and sister Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stack, in Akron.

AFGHAN KING, JOB DESERTER, IN COMEBACK

Abdicated Monarch Proclaims
Himself Ruler When
Rebel Ousts Brother.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Amanullah Khan has withdrawn his abdication and again proclaimed himself king of Afghanistan, Indian news service dispatches received here today stated.

Using the private radio in his royal palace in Kandahar, Amanullah broadcasted the following statement to all Afghans:

"Under the present circumstances and owing to the trouble caused by the rebels, I withdraw my abdication and hereby call all loyal tribesmen of Afghanistan to join my standard."

Amanullah was given a tremendous reception when he arrived at Kandahar, the dispatches added. He is reported to have seventeen bombing planes at his disposal. The tribesmen at Kandahar have always been the staunchest supporters of Amanullah and the success of the rebel Bacha Sakao appears to have strengthened them in their desire to keep him king.

A central news dispatch from Bombay states that amanullah's elder brother who succeeded to the throne on Monday is now a virtual prisoner of Sakao's in the Royal palace at Kabul but has not actually been captured as yet.

COUNTRY IS SPLIT

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 18.—The impression prevailing today among close observers of the Afghan situation was that the country was now split up into two principalities with Amanullah Khan governing the Kandahar district and Bacha Sakao the country about Kabul.

It is felt here that Amanullah is in a better position to eventually gain control of the entire country because most of Afghanistan's revenue comes from the wealthy Kandahar district.

Although Amanullah has declared his intention of fighting, it is believed improbable that hostilities will occur until the snow melt in the spring and permits military maneuvers.

DOZEN STORES ARE WRECKED

Unskilled Bombing of One Establishment Spreads Ruin
For Three Blocks.

DETROIT, Jan. 18.—With three suspects in custody, police today laid the blame for a gasoline explosion that razed the Garfield Furniture and Music Co. store here, wrecked a dozen nearby stores and theaters and caused damage estimated at more than $150,000 on unskilled bombers employed by a blackmailing ring.

In the excitement immediately attending the early morning blast, wild reports had been sent out that many persons had been killed. These reports, however, slimmer down to the fact that only one person, a woman was seriously injured. She was Mrs. Selma Martel. She was taken to receiving hospital where attaches said her recovery is doubtful.

At least 30 others, living in houses within a block and a half of the scene of the explosion, suffered bruises and shock when they were hurled from their beds by the force of the blast.

Two of the suspects, arrested immediately after the blast, are Joe Zangaro, 32, and Phil Guzman, 25. Identity of the third man, a cab driver, was not divulged by police.

FARMER ARRESTED FOLLOWING RITES

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Robert Lee Rice, 55, a farmer of Deer Creek-twp, is held in county jail for Akron officials, who accuse him of burning a house there two and a half years ago to collect insurance.

Rice was arrested by deputy sheriffs just as funeral services for his wife, Susan A. Rice, 51, were completed. The children, aged 13, 11 and 9, are being cared for by a family in Lafayette. Five children by a former marriage reside with relatives elsewhere.

DRY WORK OF ANDY MELLON HELD 'FARCE'

Prohibitionists Accuse Secretary of Treasury of "Laying Down" on Job.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—A fresh storm of attacks on the record of Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury today threatened to prolong senate discussion of the proposal for a $25,000,000 increase in prohibition enforcement funds and a $75,000,000 tax refund.

The third richest man in the world, who gave up his private business to direct the government's fiscal affairs, was accused of "laying down" on the job of enforcing prohibition. His record was described as a "farce" by dry leaders and he was accused of not trying to enforce the dry law.

The prohibition battle probably will be put a tempest in a teapot compared to the really serious criticism certain to be launched at his plea for $75,000,000 to repay refunded taxes. To date, during the Mellon rule in the treasury, the government has turned back $2,614,000,000 in refunds and credits on income taxes. Much of this money has gone to large corporations and to possessors of swollen incomes.

AGAINST SELECTION

Administration leaders saw in the dual attack on Mellon an indirect effort to keep him out of President-elect Hoover's cabinet. It was apparent the Democratic chieftains were whetting their words for Mellon, as Senator Harris (D) of Georgia, conducted the day attack and Senator McKellar (D) of Tennessee, prepared the tax refund assault.

Both subjects will be the basis, it was understood, of a fight against confirmation of Mellon should Hoover name him in the next cabinet.

The two items were contained in the first deficiency appropriation bill, a measure that usually enacted without debate. The bill also contained an $8,400,000 item for a new house office building and lesser emergency items.

PROPOSES DRY CUT

In an effort to save Mellon from further attack on the prohibition issue Senator Jones (R) of Washington, an administration dry, proposed to reduce the dry fund to $1,250,000 Senator Warren (R) of Wyoming, chairman of the senate appropriations committee, who led the fight against the $25,000,000 fund, immediately announced he would accept it. The $1,250,000 would be used chiefly to employ additional dry agents, although $250,000 would be used to "disseminate information" and pay "traveling expenses."

The tax refund matter long has been the subject of Democratic criticism. The refunds have been secretly, and except for members of the special congressional tax commission the details aren't even given to senators and representatives. If the taxpayer is satisfied, the refund can't even be aired in court. On one occasion Senator Couzens (R) of Michigan, directed an investigation into the subject but congress never took any action to change it.

The death of Mr. Stoker came as a big surprise to all of his friends and relatives. He had been operated upon for prostate gland trouble on Saturday Jan. 12, and he apparently seemed to be past all danger and well upon his way to recovery, when he suffered a change for the worse. Uraemic poisoning was given as the direct cause of his death.

He had been sealer of weights and measures here for the past six years.

Mr. Stoker was born in Washington-twp and he grew to manhood in this county where he had lived his entire life. During the past 15 years he had been a resident of the village of Ashville.

Boy is Forbidden To See His Bride, 12, For Six Years

NILES, O., Jan. 18.—James Lucas, 18, today was under a court decree which forbids him to see his 12-year-old bride, Eunice Parsons, for the next six years.

It was learned that the two had been married in Wellsburg, W. Va., Dec. 28. When they returned here the girl met her former teacher on the street about a week later. The teacher had both brought into court.

Judge William J. Hyde, in the Trumbull-co probate court, fined Lucas $50 and sentenced him to 90 days in jail on a charge of contributing to the girl's delinquency. The judge then suspended the fine on condition that the youth stays away from his girl-bride for six years, or until she is 18.

The men were charged with the theft of 11 bushels of barley from a granary on the Jackson pike.

The two brothers were first arrested on a chicken theft charge in Chillicothe and returned to Circleville.

It was later learned through a grain check, they had sold grain which had not been raised by them.

They were tried on the chicken charge in Mayor B. T. Hedges' court.

Tom A. Renick and Max Seyfert represented the defendants.

KREISLER IN TRIPLE CRASH

Famous Violinist Among Injured In Wreck of Three
Trains In East.

ABERDEEN, Md., Jan. 18.—With four trainmen dead and another in a critical condition, Pennsylvania railroad officials today pushed a vigorous investigation into the triple wreck of two express trains and a freight a mile and a half from here late yesterday.

The first collision occurred at 4:40 p. m., when train No. 412, a combination mail-passenger train with eight coaches which had left Washington for Philadelphia at 3:05 p. m., crashed into the rear of extra freight No. 1472, pulling 99 cars. The passenger locomotive and the freight caboose were demolished and several freight cars were thrown across the southbound tracks. A few minutes later the crack southern express, No. 121, carrying passengers bound for Baltimore, Washington and the south, crashed into the wreckage.

Railroad officials blamed the blinding fog for the first crash, but said they could not understand by some member of the train crews of the northbound passenger train or the northbound freight did not flag the oncoming southern express. The engineer and fireman of both passenger trains, whose testimony would be the most important to the investigators, are either dead or too badly injured to be questioned at present.

It was considered a miracle that no passengers were killed. According to railroad officials, not one passenger was injured seriously although many of them were shaken up when several coaches and three sleeping cars were derailed. Fritz Kreisler, famous violinist, was injured slightly.

AFGHAN KING, JOB DESERTER, IN COMEBACK

Abdicated Monarch Proclaims
Himself Ruler When
Rebel Ousts Brother.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Amanullah Khan has withdrawn his abdication and again proclaimed himself king of Afghanistan, Indian news service dispatches received here today stated.

Using the private radio in his royal palace in Kandahar, Amanullah broadcasted the following statement to all Afghans:

"Under the present circumstances and owing to the trouble caused by the rebels, I withdraw my abdication and hereby call all loyal tribesmen of Afghanistan to join my standard."

Amanullah was given a tremendous reception when he arrived at Kandahar, the dispatches added. He is reported to have seventeen bombing planes at his disposal.

The tribesmen at Kandahar have always been the staunchest supporters of Amanullah and the success of the rebel Bacha Sakao appears to have strengthened them in their desire to keep him king.

A central news dispatch from Bombay states that amanullah's elder brother who succeeded to the throne on Monday is now a virtual prisoner of Sakao's in the Royal palace at Kabul but has not actually been captured as yet.

COUNTRY IS SPLIT

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 18.—The impression prevailing today among close observers of the Afghanistan situation was that the country was now split up into two principalities with Amanullah Khan governing the Kandahar district and Bacha Sakao the country about Kabul.

It is felt here that Amanullah is in a better position to eventually gain control of the entire country because most of Afghanistan's revenue comes from the wealthy Kandahar district.

Although Amanullah has declared his intention of fighting Sakao, it is believed improbable that hostilities will occur until the snows melt in the spring and permits military maneuvers.

DOZEN STORES ARE WRECKED

Unskilled Bombing of One Establishment Spreads Ruin
For Three Blocks.

DETROIT, Jan. 18.—With three suspects in custody, police today laid the blame for a gasoline explosion that razed the Garick Furniture and Music Co. store here, wrecked a dozen nearby stores and theaters and caused damage estimated at more than $150,000 on unskilled bombers employed by a blackmailing ring.

In the excitement immediately attending the early morning blast, wild reports had been sent out that many persons had been killed. These reports, however, simmered down to the fact that only one person, a woman was seriously injured. She is Mrs. Selmia Martel. She was taken to receiving hospital where attaches said her recovery is doubtful.

At least 30 others, living in houses within a block and a half of the scene of the explosion, suffered bruises and shock when they were hurled from their beds by the force of the blast.

Two of the suspects, arrested immediately after the blast, are Joe Zangaro, 32, and Phil Guzman, 25. Identity of the third man, a cab driver, was not divulged by police.

Zangaro was found pinned under the wreckage in an alley back of the furniture store. Guzman was picked up unconscious a short distance from Zangaro.

The explosion, caused by fumes from five or six five-gallon cans of gasoline placed in the Garrick store, occurred exactly at 12:30 a. m., stopping a clock across the street at that time, police said.

That unskilled men handled the blasting was indicated by the fact that the damage, instead of being centralized on the property of the man it was believed to have been aimed at, was spread recklessly over an area of three blocks.

The blackmailing theory was adopted by police after they learned that children of John Garrick, owner of the music store, had confided to playmates recently that "bad men are trying to get money away from napa but he won't give it to them."

'WISE MONEY' ON LOMSKI IN BRADDOCK GO

Five To One Odds Offered That Aberdeen Assassin Will Avoid Kayo.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—They are betting 5 to 1 that the youthful James J. Braddock does not put the sleep plug on Leo Lomski this evening at the garden, and 2 to 1 that the Aberdeen assassin carves a decision out of the Jersey spangle.

These odds represent the "wise money" opinion of a scrap between two of the pretenders to the light heavyweight throne.

They seem a bit out of line.

As James J. Braddock is fighting now, no man in his division is a 2 to 1 shot over him except possibly Tommy Loughran, the champion.

Tommy still figures to outbox any of his rivals and when he is hurt he can present as few openings as a frightened porcupine.

LOMSKI IS RUSHER

Lomski is no Loughran as a boxer. He is cast in a sturdy mold and ably substitutes a rushing, two-fisted attack for the customary maneuvering of the orthodox boxer. Leo has been impaled on some of the best left hooks and right crosses in the barbed wire entanglements of his division but has never been spilled for the long count.

Still there is a first time for everything. It came to Pete Latzo and Tuffy Griffiths at the hands of Braddock.

Before Braddock edged toward the center of the picture by standing Griffiths on his ear, he was rated just as an ordinary performer, despite the fact that he had cracked Pete Latzo's jaw with one of his mighty rights.

Where Hoyt's Leads "New Health" Follows

HOYT MAN RECEIVES LETTER FROM CHILLICOTHE RESIDENT OF R. R. NO. 1, ENDORSING HOYT'S COMPOUND.

And still letters of praise continue to pour into Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, O., for Hoyt's Compound which is the great natural mixture of nature's finest medicinal juices now being introduced every day.

MR. SAMUEL GREGORY

These letters from people who are widely acquainted in this vicinity, many of whom have suffered for several years from dreadful cases of rheumatism and neuritis and many who were victims of stomach trouble, deranged kidneys, torpid liver, and constipation. They all say that they never saw anything like Hoyt's before. Many of them have tried countless numbers of medicines without the slightest relief. They received a letter just the other day from Mr. Samuel Gregory, R. R. No. 1, Chillicothe, O., who is well known in this vicinity and who received such wonderful action from Hoyt's that he had to write in and tell about it. Mr. Gregory's own letter just as he sent it in for publication follows:

"I am writing a few lines in praise of Hoyt's Great Compound. I suffered for many months with a severe case of stomach trouble. My food would not digest and would sour on my stomach, causing gas to form and terrible pains to shoot through the pit of my stomach. I tried several different kinds of medicines without relief, then I began to grow worse until finally I was in CONSTANT MISERY after each meal. Finally I began reading of Hoyt's Compound and what it was doing for people here in Chillicothe and decided to try it. ONE LAST EFFORT to bring relief to my tortured body. Hoyt's has certainly proved to be all that is claimed for it. It has certainly relieved me of my troubles. I am no longer troubled with indigestion, gas on stomach, or bloating and it has also driven the pains out of my stomach, making me feel like new again. Any person who suffers as I did will make no mistake in trying this compound of roots and herbs and if anyone doubts that this is a letter written by my own hand, let them come to me and I will tell them the same story that I have written.

Yours for new health.

SAMUEL GREGORY, R. R. No. 1, Chillicothe, O.

Lomski naturally is a charger. He hits hard with both hands, but doesn't flinch to land one lethal blow, his style, rather, is to wear an opponent down by constant mauling.

HAS NEW DEFENSE

If Leo comes tearing at Braddock tonight he will be in danger. Braddock is a counter hitter who needs only one good shot at a protruding chin. He may not get it with Lomski tonight, for the Aberdeen blond is no fool. He has been working out a new plan of defense in his gymnasium boxing—a style calculated to get him to close quarters without taking any chances. Once inside, he hopes to batter the body and thus sap the strength from Braddock's punches. There may be a knockout either way in this fight. The citizenry senses this, and for the last two days the ticket sale has attained proportions that should approach a sell-out tonight.

THEATRES

MORGAN'S LAST RAID

Colonel Tim McCoy, hero of a score of Western thrill dramas, turns his attention toward a more historical and deeper sentimental story in "Morgan's Last Raid," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture new showing at the Metropolitan theatre. Previously, a majority of the dynamic McCoy's adventures have been in the land of the Indians, the cattle country and in the desert. In his new epic, however, he wears the gray uniform of a loyal confederate who, when Tennessee secedes from the Union, joins the colors and becomes the leader of one of the most aggressive bands of raiders in the conflict.

McCoy's military training, his expert horsemanship and compelling personality have never been more manifest than in "Morgan's Last Raid." Miss Sebastian looks like a cameo in her dainty crinoline frock and makes the most of a part demanding a very fine bit of acting. Wheeler Oakman, Hank Mann, Montague Shaw and Allan Garcia are prominently cast. Nick Grinde has directed "Morgan's Last Raid" from the screen play by Bradley King.

"THE LONE RIDER"

The Western whirlwind, Fred Church, is playing Saturday at the Cliftona theatre in his latest action melodrama, entitled "The Lone Rider." Fred is seen to advantage in the type of role that brought him a tremendous fan following and made him one of the most promising stars appearing in Western pictures today.

DARBYVILLE FIVE BEATEN BY CLOUDS

Local Quintet Takes 19 To 16 Victory In Game at C. A. C. Gym.

In a preliminary game played before the C.A.C. battle Wednesday night, the Flying Clouds won their 10th victory of the season by defeating the Darbyville quintet by a score of 19 to 16.

The game was fast and thrilling and offered a good eyeopener as the score was close throughout the game, the half ending 9 to 8 in favor of the out-of-town team.

In the second half the Clouds overcame the lead and took a well earned victory.

Glitt, of the Clouds, led the scoring attack caging three goals and one foul in the last half. On the Darbyville team, Walker scored eight points for that side.

As a preliminary to next week's battle the Centrala Independents will meet the Clouds.

PLAN BATTLE FOR HEENEY, UZCUDUN

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Tom Mc Ardle, Madison Square Garden, matchmaker, today is trying to arrange a bout between Paulino Uzcudun, Basque heavyweight, and Tom Heeneey, Paulino, left out in the cold when the Sharkey-Stribling go was arranged, wants to tackle the Australian again in after returning from his proposed trip to Porto Rico.

Heeneey is not expected to blink at the match, because he claims he should have been awarded the decision over Paulino in both of their previous meetings. They fought one draw and the Basque was given the decision in the other bout.

Give freely

When your Children Cry for It

Mothers, who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purging. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

Smoothness

Never Before Achieved in a Low-Priced Automobile

Of all the exceptional performance qualities resulting from the advanced design of the new Chevrolet Six, none is more impressive than its remarkably smooth operation.

Although the new six-cylinder motor develops 32% more power with higher speed and faster acceleration . . . although it delivers better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline—

—its outstanding feature of performance is a degree of smoothness never before achieved in any low-priced automobile.

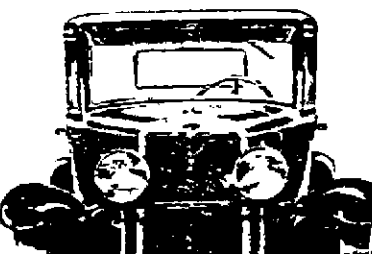

Whether you are flashing away from a traffic stop with the accelerator to the floor, whether you are rolling along at twenty-five miles an hour or doing well above sixty on the open road—the power is delivered easily, freely and without annoying vibration.

To achieve such remarkable performance in a car of such low price, Chevrolet spent years in development work. Over 100 different engines were designed, built and subjected to over a million miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground before the present motor was adopted. The new power plant has many unusual features, such as the new acceleration pump, the new gasoline pump and filter, and the new automatic lubrication of the rocker arms.

The four-wheel brakes have been newly designed to assure positive, quiet action. Steering has been made easier. And the new Fisher bodies with their new lines, new colors, adjustable driver's seat and new appointments, represent new heights of style, distinction, comfort and outstanding value.

We extend you a cordial invitation to see and drive the new Chevrolet Six. We want you to know how finely the new Chevrolet Six is built and how smoothly it performs!

There may be a knockout either way in this fight. The citizenry senses this, and for the last two days the ticket sale has attained proportions that should approach a sell-out tonight.

FAVOR CANZONERI OVER CUBAN BOXER

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Tony Canzoneri, New York Italian, rates a 7-to-5 favorite to "take" Armando Santiago of Cuba when they face each other in the ten round feature bout of Jim Mullen's coliseum show tonight.

They will meet at 130 pounds, the junior lightweight limit. The winner has been promised a championship match with that division's title holder, Tod Morgan.

Owls are said to be the only birds that will attack a skunk. They kill with their talons, seizing the odoriferous mammal by the scuff of the neck and severing the spinal cord. Animals as a general rule will attack the skunk only when starving.

MORGAN'S LAST RAID

Colonel Tim McCoy, hero of a score of Western thrill dramas, turns his attention toward a more historical and deeper sentimental story in "Morgan's Last Raid," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture new showing at the Metropolitan theatre. Previously, a majority of the dynamic McCoy's adventures have been in the land of the Indians, the cattle country and in the desert. In his new epic, however, he wears the gray uniform of a loyal confederate who, when Tennessee secedes from the Union, joins the colors and becomes the leader of one of the most aggressive bands of raiders in the conflict.

McCoy's military training, his expert horsemanship and compelling personality have never been more manifest than in "Morgan's Last Raid." Miss Sebastian looks like a cameo in her dainty crinoline frock and makes the most of a part demanding a very fine bit of acting. Wheeler Oakman, Hank Mann, Montague Shaw and Allan Garcia are prominently cast. Nick Grinde has directed "Morgan's Last Raid" from the screen play by Bradley King.

"THE LONE RIDER"

The Western whirlwind, Fred Church, is playing Saturday at the Cliftona theatre in his latest action melodrama, entitled "The Lone Rider." Fred is seen to advantage in the type of role that brought him a tremendous fan following and made him one of the most promising stars appearing in Western pictures today.

CUT FARES TO MIAMI FIGHT

Railroads of Country to Make Special Rates To Heavy-weight Battle.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 18.—Fight fans will have the help of the railroads in reaching the Sharkey-Stribling fight here February 27. Round trip rates of a one way fare plus 25 cents have been approved by the southeastern carriers. The same rates will be submitted to the other carrier associations, so the same proposition may be available to fight hungry fans throughout the country.

This information was submitted to Jack Dempsey, the promoter and William F. Carey, vice-president and treasurer of Madison Square Garden by W. J. Craig, passenger traffic manager of the Atlantic coast lines.

All the southern carriers have approved the rates already. The excursion plan will, in turn, be submitted to the trunk line carriers, the New England carriers, the Central passenger, the Western passenger, the Southwestern and the trans-Continental carrier associations, with the view to having uniform round trip rates for the fight all over the country.

The selling dates for Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina were fixed as Feb. 24 and 25 and for the southernmost cities as Feb. 24, 25 and 26, with return by March 4.

DARBYVILLE FIVE BEATEN BY CLOUDS

Local Quintet Takes 19 To 16 Victory In Game at C. A. C. Gym.

In a preliminary game played before the C.A.C. battle Wednesday night, the Flying Clouds won their 10th victory of the season by defeating the Darbyville quintet by a score of 19 to 16.

The game was fast and thrilling and offered a good eyeopener as the score was close throughout the game, the half ending 9 to 8 in favor of the out-of-town team.

In the second half the Clouds overcame the lead and took a well earned victory.

Glitt, of the Clouds, led the scoring attack caging three goals and one foul in the last half. On the Darbyville team, Walker scored eight points for that side.

As a preliminary to next week's battle the Centralia Independents will meet the Clouds.

PLAN BATTLE FOR HEENEY, UZCUDUN

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Tom McArdle, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, today is trying to arrange a bout between Paulino Uzcudun, Basque heavyweight, and Tom Heeneey, Paulino, left out in the cold when the Sharkey-Stribling go was arranged, wants to tackle the Australian again in a return from his proposed trip to Porto Rico.

Heeneey is not expected to blink at the match, because he claims he should have been awarded the decision over Paulino in both of their previous meetings. They fought one draw and the Basque was given the decision in the other bout.

Reason Enough

The primary grade was having a lesson about regularity in eating. An eager lad took the floor and said: "Children must not eat between meals because their eyes are bigger than their stomachs."

Those who argue that nature works on an intelligent plan are called upon to explain the appearance of a three-eyed haddock found among a catch of fish brought to Boston. The extra eye was on the left side of the head.

Give freely

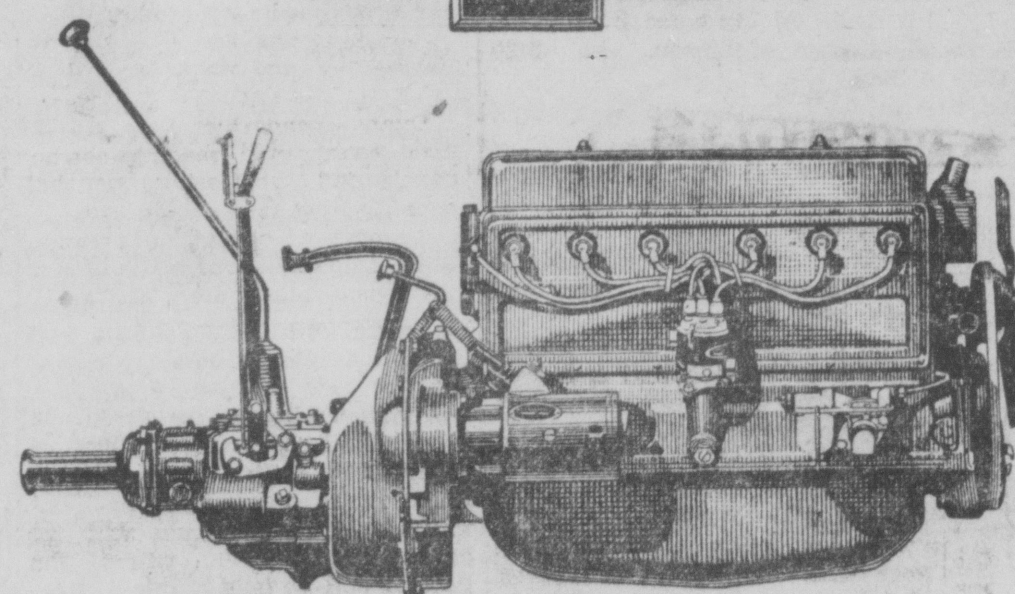

When your Children Cry for It

Mothers, who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purging. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

Smoothness

Never Before Achieved in a Low-Priced Automobile

Of all the exceptional performance qualities resulting from the advanced design of the new Chevrolet Six, none is more impressive than its remarkably smooth operation.

Although the new six-cylinder motor develops 32% more power with higher speed and faster acceleration . . . although it delivers better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline—

—its outstanding feature of performance is a degree of smoothness never before achieved in any low-priced automobile.

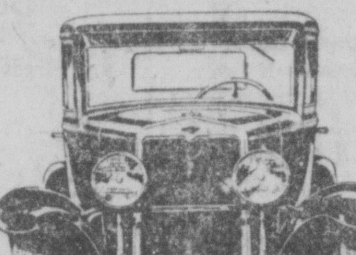

Whether you are flashing away from a traffic stop with the accelerator to the floor, whether you are rolling along at twenty-five miles an hour or doing well above sixty on the open road—the power is delivered easily, freely and without annoying vibration.

To achieve such remarkable performance in a car of such a price, Chevrolet spent years in development work. Over 100 different engines were designed, built and subjected to over a million miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground before the present motor was adopted. The new power plant has many unusual features, such as the new acceleration pump, the new gasoline pump and filter, and the new automatic lubrication of the rocker arms.

The four-wheel brakes have been newly designed to assure positive, quiet action. Steering has been made easier. And the new Fisher bodies with their new lines, new colors, adjustable driver's . . . and new appointments, represent new heights of style, distinction, comfort and outstanding value.

We extend you a cordial invitation to see and drive the new Chevrolet Six. We want you to know how finely the new Chevrolet Six is built and how smoothly it performs!

Where Hoyt's Leads "New Health" Follows

HOYT MAN RECEIVES LETTER FROM CHILLICOTHE RESIDENT OF R. R. NO. 1, ENDORSING HOYT'S COMPOUND.

And still letters of praise continue to pour into Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, O., for Hoyt's Compound which is the great natural mixture of nature's finest medicinal juices now being introduced every day.

MR. SAMUEL GREGORY

These letters come from people who are widely acquainted in this vicinity, many of whom have suffered for several years from dreadful cases of rheumatism and neuritis and many who were victims of stomach trouble, deranged kidneys, torpid liver, and constipation. They all say that they never saw anything like Hoyt's before. Many of them have tried countless numbers of medicines without the slightest relief. They received a letter just the other day from Mr. Samuel Gregory, R. R. No. 1, Chillicothe, O., who is well known in this vicinity and who received such wonderful action from Hoyt's that he had to write in and tell about it. Mr. Gregory's own letter just as he sent it in for publication follows:

"I am writing a few lines in praise of Hoyt's Great Compound. I suffered for many months with a severe case of stomach trouble. My food would not digest and would sour on my stomach, causing gas to form and terrible pains to shoot through the pit of my stomach. I tried several different kinds of medicines without relief, then I began to grow worse until finally I was in CONSTANT MISERY after each meal. Finally I began reading of Hoyt's Compound and what it was doing for people here in Chillicothe and decided to try it in ONE LAST EFFORT to bring relief to my tortured body. Hoyt's has certainly proved to be all that is claimed for it. It has certainly relieved me of my troubles. I am no longer troubled with indigestion, gas on stomach, or bloating and it has also driven the pains out of my stomach, making me feel like new again. Any person who suffers as I did will make no mistake in trying this compound of roots and herbs and if anyone doubts that this is a letter written by my own hand, let them come to me and I will tell the same story that I have written.

Yours for new health,
SAMUEL GREGORY,

TRIAL IS SET IN SLAYING OF TUNNEY GUIDE

SPECTACULAR. N. Y., Jan. 18.—The new county court house here will be the scene of the trial early next month of Ernest Duane, 35, charged with violating the woodland code and murdering Ula Davis, 60, the man who trained him as a guide.

Hamilton county, which is New York state's only county with a district attorney and county judge who are not lawyers, expects one of the most sensational trials in years.

wound through his body. His friends searched several days for the slayer.

Duane was arrested by state troopers who said they found a wallet, containing $200, sewed in one of his pockets. Each bill and the wallet had a bullet hole through it, it was said. The bullet which killed Davis, police say, entered the guide's hip and penetrated the pocket where he carried his wallet.

After being questioned for hours, Duane is said by Kearney to have confessed.

"I needed the money," Duane is quoted as saying. "I knew Davis had some for working as guide last Summer. I don't know why I killed him. He was such a good fellow."

An extraordinary session of the grand jury has been called for February 1 and the case will be given to that term.

Duane spends his time in the little county jail reading cowboy novels and professing nonchalance over what justice he will receive on the charge of breaking the woodland code. His young wife visits him almost daily.

W. C. T. U. MEETS

The Tarlton W. C. T. U. held their regular meeting at the home of Miss Woeltje Anderson, Jan. 11. The topic for this meeting was celebrating the ninth birthday of National constitutional prohibition.

A victory day program was rendered Opening song, "America;" Responsive reading, Psalm 98 chap. Song, "Lead On, O King Eternal;" Prayer by Mary Porter and the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Myrtle Gill; Reading, "Nine Years Before Prohibition;" Mary Porter.

"Upon street corners which are today occupied by enormous bank and office buildings costing from 1.0 to 20 million dollars, nine years ago on some of these self same corners were small two, three or four story buildings, whose main floor was entirely devoted to the sale of booze. Scarcely any city in the United States can point to some corner in the city without showing you a spot which at one time was utilized for the sale of booze. Tribute after tribute pours in, making a stream of endorsements for Konjola, the new medicine. Those who suffer will be interested in the wonderful experience of Mrs. Sam Kohankie, 223 Erie street, Painesville, Ohio.

"Wonderful beyond words is this new Konjola, for just three bottles of this marvelous medicine have vanquished my health troubles. For seven years I suffered the torments of indigestion, torpid liver, disordered kidneys, constipation and rheumatism. Every meal was followed by gas, bloating, heart palpitation, headaches and the spitting up of hot sour liquid. I was in a terribly weakened condition.

I read and heard so much about this new Konjola that I began wondering if it would help me. I doubted it for nothing ever had. But three bottles of this medicine regulated my bowels and liver; my kidneys were put into normal condition, and the indigestion vanished. What a joy it is to be able to eat a hearty meal to sleep well after all the suffering I went through. I feel I owe to other sufferers to tell them about Konjola."

grocery stores. Many cities spent more money for booze than any other commodity except food, which is answer enough to the doubts of the people who cannot understand why prohibition has brought prosperity."

Reading, "Nine Years After Prohibition," Myrtle Gill.

"What do we find in America nine years after prohibition?" We find a land so overflowing with happiness and prosperity that the Good Old U. S. A. is the despair of the other nations who know they must adopt prohibition if they are to stay in the race. We have learned in America that if one needs to relax he doesn't need to go to the saloon or to the whisky bottle. If there were saloons today we would not have as many golf players, as many golf courses, nor as much fine health. We would not have as many automobiles (nine to every ten families) nor as many hours to drive them with money in our pockets. We have better clothes and more clothes than any other people."

U.," Hazel Ketterman; Reading, "Young Folks, Better," Nellie Ryan; Reading, "More and Better Hotels," Lucy Bresler; Reading, "America Tired of the Saloon," Ada Aldenderfer; Reading, "Old Saloon Days," Woeltje Anderson. "A speaker at a recent W. C. T. U. gathering made the statement 'I saw more drunk men in London last summer in nine days than I have seen in the whole United States in the last nine years.' In 1911 the amount of beer brewed and consumed was 63,216,851 barrels. Yet the wets try to tell us that there is more beer drunk today than ever before."

Closing song, "Praise God from whom all Blessings Flow," followed by repeating the benediction.

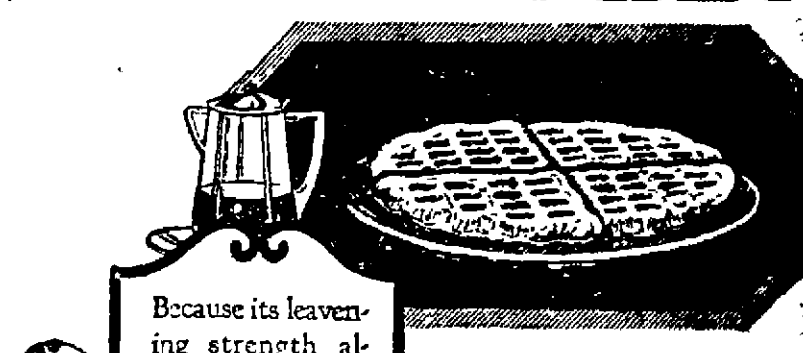

During the social hour the hostess served refreshments.

Scotch Waitresses Must Lengthen Their Skirts or

GLASGOW, Jan. 18.—Six Scots lassies working as waitresses in Glasgow's civic tea-room are practically in tears over the unlucky numeral "13." For the Glasgow corporation has decreed that the skirts of their waitresses in their tea-room must end thirteen inches above the ground; no more, no less.

Now thirteen inches is from three to seven inches closer to the ground than the intriguing creations the waitresses have been wearing. Shapely, twinkling knees that gladdened the eye of the diner, and moved even the thrifty Scot to a respectable tip, henceforth must hide their attractiveness beneath trailing folds of cloth.

In consequence all are threatening to quit.
"Thirteen inches!" exclaimed
one of the waitresses. "Dowdy!
That's what I call it!"

Another: "What this joint wants, is midgets!"

W. C. T. U. MEETS

The Tarlton W. C. T. U. held their regular meeting at the home of Miss Woolthie Anderson, Jan.
11. The topic for this meeting was celebrating the ninth birthday of National constitutional prohibition.

A victory day program was rendered. Opening song, "America;" Responsive reading, Psalm 98 chap.; Song, "Lead On, O
King Eternal;" Prayer by Mary Porter and the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Myrtle Gill; Reading, "Nine Years Before Prohibition," Mary Porter.

"Upon street corners which are today occupied by enormous bank and office buildings costing from 10 to 20 million dollars, nine years ago on some of these self same corners were small two, three or four story buildings, whose main floor was entirely devoted to the sale of booze. Scarcely any city in the United States cannot point to some 'business' corner in the city" without showing you a spot which at one time was utilized for the sole purpose of laddling out drinks to men as fast as they could come in at the door and go out the rear. In many cities there were more saloons than

ABOUT KONJOLA"

Complication That Held Painful
Sway For Seven Years, Quickly Relieved By the New Medicine.

MRS. SAM KOHANKIE

Tribute after tribute pours in, making a stream of endorsements
for Konjola, the new medicine.
Those who suffer will be interested in the wonderful experience of Mrs. Sam Kohankie, 223 Erie street, Painesville, Ohio.

"Wonderful beyond words is this new Konjola, for just three bottles of this marvelous medicine have vanquished my health troubles. For seven years I suffered the torments of indigestion, torpid liver, disordered kidneys,
constipation and rheumatism.
Every meal was followed by gas, bloating, heart palpitation, headaches and the spitting up of hot, sour liquid. I was in a terribly weakened condition.

"I read and heard so much about this new Konjola that I began wondering if it would help me. I doubted it, for nothing ever had. But three bottles of this medicine regulated my bowels and liver; my kidneys were put into normal condition, and the indigestion vanished. What a joy it is to be able to eat a hearty meal, to sleep well after all the suffering I went through. I feel I owe it to other sufferers to tell them about Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, O.,

grocery stores. Many cities spent more money for booze than any other commodity except food, which is answer enough to the doubts of the people who cannot understand why prohibition has brought prosperity."

Reading, "Nine Years After Prohibition," Myrtle Gill.

"What do we find in America nine years after prohibition?"
We find a land so overflowing with happiness and prosperity that the Good Old U. S. A. is the despair of the other nations who know they must adopt prohibition if they are to stay in the race. We have learned in America that if one needs to relax he doesn't need to go to the saloon or to the whisky bottle. If there were saloons today we would not have as many golf players, as many golf courses, nor as much fine health. We would not have as many automobiles (nine to every ten families) nor as many hours to drive them with money in our pockets. We have better clothes and more clothes than any other people." Reading, "The W. C. T. U.," Hazel Ketterman;
Reading, "Young Folks Better," Nellie Ryan; Reading, "More and Better Hotels," Lucy Bresler; Reading, "America Tired of the Saloon," Ada Aldenderfer; Reading, "Old Saloon Days," Woolthie Anderson. "A speaker at a recent W. C. T. U. gathering made the statement 'I saw more drunken men in London last summer in nine days than I have seen in the whole United States in the last nine years.' In 1911 the amount of beer brewed and consumed was 63,216,851 barrels.
Yet the wets try to tell us that there is more beer drunk today than ever before."

Closing song, "Praise God from whom all Blessings Flow," followed by repeating the benediction.

During the social hour the hostess served refreshments.

ALARM FELT OVER WIDOW

Wealthy Portsmouth Resident Missing For Two Days—Police Aid Asked.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 18.—A tense furor of excitement swept this city today when it became known that Mrs. Tillie F. Boyer, 67, wealthy widow of Oscar Boyer, former real estate operator, has been missing for two days.

Relatives of the woman sought police aid. They said that the woman had disappeared two days ago and had not been seen or heard from since.

Mrs. Boyer is reputed to have property holdings valued at over a quarter million dollars.

Relatives, in making their report to police, said they believed the woman had been kidnapped. Alarm was sounded when Mrs. Boyer failed to call her niece for the past two days. Mrs. Boyer was in ill health and it had been her habit to call her niece once a day, to advise her that she was all right.

Local police and county authorities are conducting a determined search for the woman.

MILK STRIKE SPREAD SEEN

Dispute With Chicago Distributors Over Price May Mean Farm Revolt.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Fear that Chicago's milk "strike" would turn into a farmers' revolt was expressed by Illinois and Wisconsin authorities today.

Wadsworth Co., Wis. Sheriff James Mason threatened to ask the governor for state troops unless violence and intimidation of non-strikers ceased.

The situation today was regarded as particularly acute all through Wisconsin as a result of the action of Chicago retail milk companies, in turning to that state for emergency supplies.

Another important source of supply threatened today was northern Indiana.

If Indiana "goes out," it was predicted, at least one-third of Chicago's milk supply will have been cut off.

The Wisconsin state legislature yesterday adopted a resolution requesting the state department of agriculture and the marketing committee to exert efforts toward mediation of the price dispute.

LOCAL DRUGGISTS TO VISIT CAPITAL

G. F. Grand-Girard and George Fickardt, Circleville druggists and their families are arranging to attend the mid-year convention of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association in Columbus Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 23 and 24.

Congressman Clyde Kelly will explain the Capper-Kelly bill now pending in congress. Reports on proposed legislation, the application of the Ohio Advertising Law, code of ethics, debates on ethical and commercial pharmacy, the connection of public health and safety to the chain and the independent drug store, simplification of stock through the Druggists' research Bureau, salesmanship, distribution of products made by pharmacists and prescription health campaign will absorb their attention and consideration.

The convention will close with a banquet at the Deshler-Wallick hotel and 12 act entertainment by the Columbus Retail Drug Association.

SALES LARGER IN PENNEY CO. CHAIN

Gross sales of the J. C. Penney Co., for the month of December of this year were $25,103,925.33, as compared with gross sales for the same month in 1927 of $21,799,521.30, revealing a gain of 15.16 per cent. The total for the year is $176,697,622.02, or a gain of 16.28 per cent as compared with total sales of $151,957,865.20 in 1927.

In commenting on the year's increase, I. W. Kinsey, Circleville Manager said:

"We feel that the increased sales over last year to the amount of $24,739,756.82, or 16.28 per cent is a splendid showing for our 1023 stores in operation at the close of 1928."

"While the sales for the year were less than the quota, we believe this fact may be attributed to the unseasonable weather. In line with our program to open 500 new stores in the next twelve months, as recently announced, the Company expects to do well in excess of $200,000,000 in sales in 1929."

JOHN D., SR., BACKING SON

Founder of Standard Oil Company Aiding In Fight On Col. Stewart.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who although retired, is still recognized titular head of the Standard Oil interests, was reported today to be aiding his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the latter's fight to block the re-election of Co. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

Rockefeller, Sr., is said to be throwing all his influence here against Stewart, whose attitude he is said to regard as an "affront."

Stewart is now on his way here from Chicago to take personal charge of the canvass for proxies to be used in the annual meeting of stockholders on March 7. His presence here, it is felt, may influence many stockholders now on the verge of falling in line behind Rockefeller.

The Rockefeller interests won a signal victory yesterday when Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian, who holds proxies for 12,000 shares taken over from German former owners during the war, announced he would assign them to Rockefeller.

Britain's Famous Port

The name "Liverpool" is supposed to be derived from a Norman word meaning "The Pool of the Slopes." Liverpool began its career as a shipping port in the Twelfth century when Chester harbor became too silted up for heavy laden vessels, and the ships were compelled to seek harborage in an inlet in the Mersey estuary.

BIBLE THOUGHT

RENOUNCING POISON GAS

In Germany some well-meaning people are now starting a movement to have the great powers sign a treaty renouncing the use of poison gas in time of war.

Surely there can't be any great harm in such a scheme. The thing ought to be quite easy to put over. High-sounding treaties seem to be popular, and this one ought to be high-sounding enough for anybody.

Of course, such a treaty would not have the slightest effect. If war should come every nation involved would begin to use all the poison gas it could lay its hands on, no matter how many treaties it had signed.

But it would make a nice treaty for all that.

THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

A new angle of the "farm problem" which hasn't been discussed much but which will grow more and more acute with each passing year is pointed out by a writer in the current issue of the North American Review. It is the crisis in country life which is approaching as a result of the disappearance of the country doctor.

In 1906 there were in the United States 33,000 physicians in towns of 1000 population or less. By 1924 this number had dwindled to 27,000, and it is still going down. Almost one-third of the small towns that had resident doctors in 1914 have none today.

Medical education and training grow more expensive each year. The vast majority of medical graduates, enter urban practice as specialists in one branch or another of their profession.

Just what can be done to remedy matters is not clear; obviously it is a problem that needs some very serious consideration.

A HARSH DECISION

The action of a Philadelphia judge in finding a purchaser of liquor guilty of conspiracy might have far-reaching effects if generally adopted by our courts.

There are in this country, countless "law-abiding" citizens who think nothing at all of conniving at law breaking by patronizing bootleggers. They are quite safe if the transaction comes to light it is the bootlegger's hard luck, not theirs. They keep their respectability and go unpunished.

But if arrests, stiff fines and jail sentences were apt to follow on the purchase of a bottle of whisky these people might change their attitude.

It is hard to see why anyone should protest against the Philadelphia judge's decision. After all it takes two men to break the liquor law—one to sell and one to buy. The buyer is doing just as much to break down the law as the seller. If he is made to pay a penalty he hasn't much kick coming.

"Your note is due today, Mr. Effervescue, but don't let that worry you. We really don't want the money."

Mr. George Bernard Shaw says that a gentleman is a man who puts more into the world than he takes out of it. No, he did not say that he knew any of them personally.

A factory has been organized—The Amazon Leather Goods Company of New York—that will employ only convicted criminals, men out of "stir." Safe crackers, yeggs burglars, hold up men will make up the force of operatives. This is purely from humanitarian motives, and we are most certainly not trying to make light of it. One thing will probably be apparent to the workers, and this is that they will be more prosperous under ordinary time—clock working conditions than ever before in their history. Recently inquiry was made among fifty convicted thieves as to their earnings. If earnings is the right word. These men were professionals, men whom the police had been after, men who had followed a life of crime in some instances for many years. They were all broke. Not one of them had made crime pay even a decent living. The wages of sin is death, we are assured on high authority, and is also about a dollar and a half a day.

"It's this way," said Jerry the Rat, discussing his earnings as a grocery till and second story worker. "I got a good district, and I get by pretty well, but still and all the business ain't what it ought to be. There's 20 grocery stores on my route, and five coal yards, to say nothing of 31 filling stations, and of course, the residential gag. But porch climbing is risky—no, I don't mean what you think. A man's liable to fall. Well, be that as it may, I manage to keep my wife and kids in comfort, but I work. I'm out every night, and my bridge game is suffering. Then I've got to give ten per cent to One-eyed Blatsky. I bought the route from him, and he gets his bit for five years, and of course there's some wildcats playing in the territory, guys that aren't honest enough to buy their own routes. And there's new tools to buy, and flash light batteries. It's like everything else. If you don't watch it the overhead will eat you up. Honestly, I'd take to selling oil stock if it wasn't that I want to keep going straight."

"Women practice Witchcraft," says headline. They always did. HML.

Peaks of Desire

by Kane O'Day

CHAPTER LI.

ALL at once Ann was almost terrified lest Steve rush away from her in some headlong, heedless flight which, in his present mood, would lead him to disaster. It was impossible for her to hate him for his harsh words—she was able to understand what he must be feeling.

He had loved her as an idealized person, an ethereal creature above the common frailties of her sex. When he had been attracted to her physically he had repelled her pull with a feeling that he might commit a sacrilege. The real Ann, the flesh and blood girl, he had never really known. When his ideal had been rudely shattered his whole world had crumbled, and he had been left with a broken heart and a broken life.

Only yesterday it seemed she was conscious of a mere girl's dissatisfaction with her existence as Ann Tremaine. She had moved, then, on a high plane of mechanical refinement, surrounded by every luxury, by friends of gentle, if stupid speech. Jerry Dunn had been the Pied Piper who had led her out of her natural environment and into this tangle and welter of emotions.

Even now she had lost her own identity; no longer was she Ann Tremaine but was living under an alias as a guard against possible detection of her true identity. Steve—everybody except Jerry—knew her as Mary Lynch. Jerry had invented the name for her, had invented a plausible story that she was a country high school teacher from a small town but had come to the city seeking employment. The whole thing was perfectly ridiculous and she felt as though she were walking in a dream.

But it wasn't a dream—it was all real. Mary Lynch was real. It was Ann Tremaine of the other days who was a figment of the imagination, a mythical creature. Mary Lynch lived among these people and was becoming daily more and more like them, partaking of their thoughts and feelings and giving herself up to their ways of life. She was becoming enmeshed in their emotions, their pleasures and their heartbreaks.

Once more she found herself back in her room. In the beginning it had seemed cheap and shoddy; but, by much living in it it had begun to feel like her natural shelter, her own private hiding-place. The mattress was thin but her body had become accustomed to it. The cheap cleanliness of the wallpaper no longer was strange to her eyes. Gradually, she was losing all sense of luxury and becoming habituated to the bare comforts of the meagerly salaried class.

All of this, Jerry had promised, would tend to her wider development; he had insisted that she was wasting her life and that only by contact with the contending hearts of humanity would she ever find meaning and satisfaction in the business of living. Her own social circle, he had made her believe, was artificial. How many girls,

"I can't stand to talk to you any longer."

OLDEST BISHOP TO AID AT DEDICATION

ATHENS, Jan. 12.—Methodism's oldest living bishop and Ohio university's oldest living graduate, Bishop Earl Cranston, of New Richmond, Ohio, will offer the dedicatory prayer when the new Ohio University Alumni Memorial Auditorium, the largest and best equipped college auditorium in the state, is dedicated Sunday afternoon, Jan. 20.

Bishop Cranston was graduated with the class of 1861 at the University, despite his 88 years. He is remarkably active, being chairman of the Commission on the Unification of Methodism. His voice, untouched by age, is rich, strong, and vibrant.

A chorus of 200 voices, comprising the university chorus and approximately 30 alumni, will sing Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" as another feature of the program. The chorus will be the largest group of trained singers ever assembled at the university.

"I like nice winter weather."

"Sure; best time of year."

Mr. George Bernard Shaw says that a gentleman is a man who puts more into the world than he takes out of it. No, he did not say that he knew any of them personally.

A factory has been organized—The Amazon Leather Goods Company of New York—that will employ only convicted criminals, men out of "str." Safe crackers, yeggs burglars, hold up men will make up the force of operatives. This is purely from humanitarian motives, and we are most certainly not trying to make light of it. One thing will probably be apparent to the workers, and this is that they will be more prosperous under ordinary time-clock working conditions than ever before in their history. Recently inquiry was made among fifty convicted thieves as to their earnings, if earnings is the right word. These men were professionals, men whom the police had been after, men who had followed a life of crime in some instances for many years. They were all broke. Not one of them had made crime pay even a decent living. The wages of sin is death, we are assured on high authority, and is also about a dollar and a half a day.

"It's this way," said Jerry the Rat, discussing his earnings as a grocery till and second story worker. "I got a good district, and I get by pretty well, but still and all the business ain't what it ought to be. There's 20 grocery stores on my route, and five coal yards, to say nothing of 31 filling stations, and of course, the residential gag. But porch climbing is risky—no, I don't mean what you think. A man's liable to fall. Well, be that as it may, I manage to keep my wife and kids in comfort, but I work 'em out every night, and my bridge game is suffering. Then I've got to give ten per cent to One-eyed Blatsky. I bought the route from him, and he gets his bit for five years, and of course there's some wild-cats playing in the territory, guys that aren't honest enough to buy their own routes. And there's new tools to buy, and flash light batteries. It's like everything else. If you don't watch it the overhead will eat you up. Honestly I'd take 'em selling oil stock if it wasn't that I want to keep going straight."

"Women practice Witchcraft," says headline. They always did.

Peaks of Desire by Kane O'Day

CHAPTER LL

At once Ann was almost terrified lest Steve rush away from her in some headlong, heedless flight which, in his present mood, would lead him to disaster. It was impossible for her to hate him for his harsh words—she was able to understand what he must be feeling.

He had loved her as an idealized person, an ethereal creature above the common frailties of her sex. When he had been attracted to her physically he had repelled her pull with a feeling that he might commit a sacrilege. The real Ann, the flesh and blood girl, he had never really known. When his ideal had been rudely shattered by the whole world had crumbled, nor had his background in life been sufficiently broad for him to adjust evidence and seek out the truth in a situation where the apparent facts were entirely misleading. No, she could not be angry with a man who had felt that way about her, however stupidly he might now be behaving.

"You've got to get hold of yourself, Steve, and get all these wrong ideas out of your head," she told him, striving for conviction. "You've let your imagination run away with you and you're saying and thinking things that you will be ashamed of tomorrow."

"My imagination is all right and so are my eyes," he said stolidly. "I saw you come out of Dunn's room this morning."

"But you have not let me explain."

"How can you explain?"

"You're not a fool although you're trying your best to act like one," she told him. "If you were anybody else on earth I wouldn't waste two seconds trying to explain. I'm not trying to justify myself—I merely don't want you to go off with a whole set of wrong ideas in your head."

She was getting along better now, she felt. Her thoughts were clarifying and the emotional tremors that had upset her upon their meeting at the theatre were passing. She could, she must make him see the truth.

But the volcano in his breast was still erupting. An unnatural excitement was upon him; he observed that his arms hung loosely at his sides and that his fingers were working.

"I had it coming to me for trusting any woman," he declared. "What business did a guy like me have anyway monkeying around with a girl like you? I was like dough in your hands, like putty. I made a sap out of myself, but believe me that's all ended. From now on there ain't going to be nothing holding me back. I ain't responsible to nobody—I'm going to grab mine when and where I can get it. From now on I'm going to do as I damn please."

His intense ferocity startled her. "Steve!" Her hand touched his sleeve. "Steve—you can't go on like this."

He shrank from her touch as though it burned. "I can't stand to talk to you any longer."

He turned away almost with a jerk; Ann reached out to restrain him but he wavered and walked in the opposite direction leaving her standing stunned and alone. There was nothing for her to do but to continue on alone to the rooming house.

A sense of unreality came over her. None of his could be true—it was a dream. This kind of life was utterly different from the past—it swallowed her up and she had come to believe that Steve and Jerry and Nick and Peggles, the crowds at the theatre and the narrowness of her rooming house—were actual factors in her life. These things were so close to her, so overbearing, that they all blotted out the recollection of what she had been.

Only yesterday it seemed she had been conscious of a mere girl's dissatisfaction with her existence as Ann Tremaine. She had moved, then, on a high plane of mechanical refinement, surrounded by every luxury, by friends of gentle, if stupid speech. Jerry Dunn had been the Pied Piper who had led her out of her natural environment and into this tangle and welter of emotions.

Even now she had lost her own identity; no longer was she Ann Tremaine but was living under an alias as a guard against possible detection of her true identity. Steve—everybody except Jerry—knew her as Mary Lynch. Jerry had invented the name for her, had invented a plausible story that she was a country high school teacher from a small town but had come to the city seeking employment. The whole thing was perfectly ridiculous and she felt as though she were walking in a dream.

But it wasn't a dream—it was all real. Mary Lynch was real. It was Ann Tremaine of the other days who was a fragment of the imagination, a mythical creature. Mary Lynch lived among these people and was becoming daily more and more like them, partaking of their thoughts and feelings and giving herself up to their ways of life. She was becoming enmeshed in their emotions, their pleasures and their heartbreaks.

Once more she found herself back in her room. In the beginning it had seemed cheap and shabby but, by much living in it it had begun to feel like her natural shelter, her own private hiding-place. The mattress was thin but her body had become accustomed to it. The cheap cleanliness of the wallpaper no longer was strange to her eyes. Gradually, she was losing all sense of luxury and becoming habituated to the bare comforts of the meagerly salaried class.

All of this, Jerry had promised, would tend to her wider development; he had insisted that she was wasting her life and that only by contact with the contending hearts of humanity would she ever find meaning and satisfaction in the business of living. Her own social circle, he had made her believe, was artificial. How many girls, would tend to her wider development; he had insisted that she was wasting her life and that only by contact with the contending hearts of humanity would she ever find meaning and satisfaction in the business of living. Her own social circle, he had made her believe, was artificial. How many girls, she wondered, situated as she had been would have listened to him or would have had the daring impulsiveness to follow him? Almost none.

Looking back, she could see that he had been in her case—exactly right. Previously she had never known acute unhappiness—only vague dissatisfaction. And now she knew what it was to be stunned and hurt and have her heart shaken by disturbing upheavals. There had come to her what was almost love, for a man like Steve Harrison—a gripping fascination that was obscuring humiliating because he seemed, according to her old standards, stamped with social inferiority. She had even been jealous of a cheap little girl like Maizie Thompson.

When she went to bed and tried to sleep it was with a feeling that she was dizzy and on the brink of some perilous chasm.

Bishop Cranston was graduated with the class of 1861 at University, despite his 88 years, he is remarkably active, being chairman of the Commission for the Unification of Methodism. His voice, untouched by age, is rich, strong, and vibrant.

A chorus of 200 voices, comprising the university chorus and approximately 30 alumni, will sing Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" as another feature of the program. The chorus will be the largest group of trained singers ever assembled at the university.

ALARM FELT OVER WIDOW

Wealthy Portsmouth Resident Missing For Two Days—Police Aid Asked.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 18.—A tense furor of excitement swept this city today when it became known that Mrs. Tillie F. Boyer, 67, wealthy widow of Oscar Boyer, former real estate operator, has been missing for two days.

Relatives of the woman sought police aid. They said that the woman had disappeared two days ago and had not been seen or heard from since.

Mrs. Boyer is reputed to have property holdings valued at over a quarter million dollars.

Relatives, in making their report to police, said they believed the woman had been kidnapped.

Alarm was sounded when Mrs. Boyer failed to call her niece for the past two days. Mrs. Boyer was in ill health and it had been her habit to call her niece once a day, to advise her that she was all right.

Local police and county authorities are conducting a determined search for the woman.

MILK STRIKE SPREAD SEEN

Dispute With Chicago Distributors Over Price May Mean Farm Revolt.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Fear that Chicago's milk "strike" would turn into a farmers' revolt was expressed by Illinois and Wisconsin authorities today.

Wardsworth-co, Wis., Sheriff James Mason threatened to ask the governor for state troops unless violence and intimidation of non-strikers ceased.

The situation today was regarded as particularly acute all through Wisconsin as a result of the action of Chicago retail milk companies in turning to that state for emergency supplies.

Another important source of supply threatened today was northern Indiana.

If Indiana "goes out," it was predicted, at least one-third of Chicago's milk supply will have been cut off.

The Wisconsin state legislature yesterday adopted a resolution requesting the state department of agriculture and the marketing committee to exert efforts toward mediation of the price dispute.

ATTEND FUNERAL

Mrs. H. H. Eyman and daughter, Miss Verda Eyman, went to Albany Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Eyman's uncle, M. J. Dickson, who died Sunday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. D. Knowlton in Columbus.

Mr. Dickson was in his 85th year, was a Civil war veteran, a member of the G. A. R. of Athens, Dickson post of Albany, which was named in honor of the military services of himself and two older brothers, who gave their lives in the service of their country in 1864.

He had been a Mason for about 60 years, being a member of Paramuthia lodge of Athens, which is one of the oldest lodges in the state, having received its charter in 1814. He had also been a member of the M. E. church since early manhood.

Mrs. Eyman and daughter returned home Wednesday evening.

The total for the year is $176,697,622.02, or a gain of 16.28 per cent as compared with total sales of $151,957,865.20 in 1927.

In commenting on the year's increase, I. W. Kinsey, Circleville Manager said:

"We feel that the increased sales over last year to the amount of $24,739,756.82, or 16.28 per cent is a splendid showing for our 1023 stores in operation at the close of 1928."

"While the sales for the year were less than the quota, we believe this fact may be attributed to the unseasonable weather. In line with our program to open 500 new stores in the next twelve months, as recently announced, the Company expects to do well in excess of $200,000,000 in sales in 1929."

JOHN D., SR., BACKING SON

Founder of Standard Oil Company Aiding In Fight On Col. Stewart.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who although retired, is still recognized titular head of the Standard Oil interests, was reported today to be aiding his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the latter's fight to block the re-election of Co. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

Rockefeller, Sr., is said to be paring his influence here against Stewart, whose attitude he is said to regard as an "affront."

Stewart is now on his way here from Chicago to take personal charge of the canvas for proxies to be used in the annual meeting of stockholders on March 7. His presence here, it is felt, may influence many stockholders now on the verge of falling in line behind Rockefeller.

The Rockefeller interests won a signal victory yesterday when Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian, who holds proxies for 12,000 shares taken over from German former owners during the war, announced he would assign them to Rockefeller.

Youth, Beauty and Talent in "Her Song";
Amateur Stars Make Hit in Musical Show

Youth, the nearest true stage asset, once more had its fling Thursday night in the local talent show, "Her Song." It is a John A. Rogers production, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club. The older characters, too, as well as they who played the older roles, added a firmness to this musical comedy.

Thomas Stocklen, as the music master, a difficult part, acted with admirable seriousness, speaking his lines with a slow broken accent. Some of the best spots in the show, were when he played the unfinished lines of "Her Song" written in memory of his actress wife. This afforded an excellent opportunity for the public to learn of his real talents.

Youth was represented by Mary May Haswell and Elizabeth Hay, both looking charming, and singing with delightful voices, that were really firm and true. Especially well done, was the mother song by Miss Hay. Not only her singing voice, but her speaking voice and enunciation were almost professional. Miss Haswell's appearance on the stage, started the audience of the show with surprise when she sang her first solo, in a manner that elicited applause from the audience. She has a great naturalness of stage motion.

One young man, Elliott Barnhill, seemed to eat up his clever lines with much gusto, and even fed them to the others. His scene with all the flocking young ladies was popular, with the girls quickly following into step with his flippant quips.

The popularity of two well known performers, Mack Parrett and Frank Howard was manifested in the applause given their first appearances. Their words carried plainly and they sang in the same splendid fashion, as they have in other productions. It has been a long while since they have starred in home talent. Mr. Parrett as a harassed husband, portrayed the part well.

His wife, played by Miss Mildred Barthelma, sang delightfully, and gave the audience a pleasant surprise with a whistling solo. Her long lines were perfectly committed.

Howard Greeno in his usual fine form, acted, sang and played the violin. Besse Warner as a leader of a chorus in the New York show, was successful in the back stage scene. A very beautiful and theatrical lady was played by Miss Ruth Holman. She also sang and led a picturesque dancing act, in a becoming costume.

Miss Renee Lajoie successfully managed a dramatic part in genuine fashion.

There were a number of young men who were convincing, in their back stage business. Among them was Charles Mitchell, a tall blonde hero who was a director, dealing with a handful of chorus girls and men. He was impressive, as was Harold Dunn, the impresario, who was bent on reaping shekels.

Earl Hussey, in a costume that was a cross between an undertaker and a hack driver, helped put across the truly humorous quartet of stage hands, as the song, "Sweet Alice Ben Rivet." The others were Kenneth Elm, a hard boiled stage carpenter, Lawrence Stout and Howard Greeno. They provided much of the laugh provocation of the evening. Robert Rector, in suspenders was also cast in a similar part.

The leading man of the show, in the making, was Luther Bower, bored with trivialities of practice, and enticing an innocent young girl into the ways of the New Yorker.

The choruses, which are always one of the main features in this type of show, had intricate steps of the very latest musical comedies. There were few chances for mistakes and the close formations and speed resembled the type of dancing of the famous Tiller Girls. The dancing showed earnestness and excellent coaching.

To the wealth of talents already exploited, those of singers, chorus girls and men, a pianist, a violin player and a whistler, were added two more—those of Miss Jeanne Crowe and tiny Betty Cooper. Each performed in a specialty number, of toe dancing. Jeanne with a wealth of stage presence and an established ability to dance, presented a breath taking jazz toe number. Her costume was old rose with head dress and slippers to match.

Betty, remarkably young, to even attempt toe work, arrived on the stage in a white costume, a mere handful of daintiness and curls and executed a toe dance, with a number of splits thrown in for good measure. Neither of these dancers, gave an encore, but were forced by the applause to return and make curtsies.

Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer was the able accompanist for the entire performance which was under the personal direction of Miss Grayce Mackey of New York City.

Anyone who misses the show on Friday night is missing a great deal of beauty, fun and a variety of talent. Because of illness, there were many obstacles that were overcome in every way. Some of the characters took time from business and other affairs, and to them all the public is grateful for two evenings of first class entertainment. So much was accomplished in two short weeks.

Something new in rodeos was shown Thursday afternoon, in moving pictures at the Walnut-twp school. These pictures were some of a series that are being shown this year at that school. The superintendent of the school had charge.

The subject Thursday was on the polar regions with pictures of Laplanders and Eskimos. Among these were shown the annual roundup of reindeer, with hundreds of these animals pictures in their native haunts. The method of the Eskimos in herding the animals together, very much after States cow boys conduct their round ups of carcols with slats of ice.

One difference was that the Eskimos gather ice and snow and made houses in which to live during the strange rodeo. Another different feature was the building of carcols with slats of ice.

Home life and habits were also shown in this interesting educational program, which was splendid for grownups as well as the scholars. The next projection of educational moves will be in about one month.

Rogers production, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club. The older characters, too, as well as they who played the older roles, added a firmness to this musical comedy.

Thomas Stocklen, as the music master, a difficult part, acted with admirable seriousness, speaking his lines with a slow broken accent. Some of the best spots in the show, were when he played the unfinished lines of "Her Song" written in memory of his actress wife. This afforded an excellent opportunity for the public to learn of his real talents.

Youth was represented by Mary May Haswell and Elizabeth Hay, both looking charming, and singing with delightful voices, that were really firm and true. Especially well done, was the mother song by Miss Hay. Not only her singing voice, but her speaking lines and enunciations were almost professional. Miss Haswell's appearance on the stage, started the music of the show with sureness, when she sang her first solo, in a manner that elicited applause from the audience. She has a great naturalness of stage motion.

One young man, Elliott Barnhill, seemed to eat up his clever lines with much gusto, and even fed them to the others. His scene with all the flocking young ladies was popular, with the girls quickly following into step with his flippant quips.

The popularity of two well known performers, Mack Parrett and Frank Howard was manifested in the applause given their first appearances. Their words carried plainly and they sang in the same splendid fashion, as they have in other productions. It has been a long while since they have starred in home talent. Mr. Parrett as a harassed husband, portrayed the part well.

His wife, played by Miss Mildred Barthelmas, sang delightfully, and gave the audience a pleasant surprise with a whistling solo. Her long lines were perfectly committed.

Howard Greeno in his usual fine form, acted, sang and played the violin. Besse Warner as a leader of a chorus in the New York show, was successful in the back stage scene. A very beautiful and theatrical lady was played by Miss Ruth Holman. She also sang and led a picturesque dancing act, in a becoming costume. Miss Renee Lajoie successfully managed a dramatic part in genuine fashion.

There were a number of young men who were convincing, in their back stage business. Among them was Charles Mitchell, a tall blonde hero who was a director, dealing with a handful of chorus girls and men. He was impressive, as was Harold Dumm, the impresario, who was bent on reaping shekels.

Earl Hussey, in a costume that was a cross between an undertaker and a hack driver, helped put across the truly humorous quartet of stage hands, as the song, "Sweet Alice Ben Rivet." The others were Kenneth Ulm, a hard boiled stage carpenter, Lawrence Stout and Howard Greeno. They provided much of the laugh provocation of the evening. Robert Rector, in suspenders was also cast in a similar part.

The leading man of the show, in the making, was Luther Bower, bored with trivialities of practice, and enticing an innocent young girl into the ways of the New Yorker.

The choruses, which are always one of the main features in this type of show, had intricate steps of the very latest musical comedies. There were few chances for mistakes and the close formations and speed resembled the type of dancing of the famous Tiller Girls. The dancing showed earnestness and excellent coaching.

To the wealth of talents already exploited, those of singers, chorus girls and men, a pianist, a violin player and a whistler, were added two more—those of Miss Jeanne Crowe and tiny Betty Cooper. Each performed in a specialty number, of toe dancing. Jeanne with a wealth of stage presence and an established ability to dance, presented a breath taking jazz toe number. Her costume was old rose with head dress and slippers to match.

Betty, remarkably young, to even attempt toe work, arrived on the stage in a white costume, a mere handful of daintiness and curls and executed a toe dance, with a number of splits thrown in for good measure. Neither of these dancers, gave an encore, but were forced by the applause to return and make curtsies.

Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer was the able accompanist for the entire performance which was under the personal direction of Miss Grayce Mackey of New York City.

Anyone who misses the show on Friday night is missing a great deal of beauty, fun and a variety of talent. Because of illness, there were many obstacles that were overcome in every way. Some of the characters took time from business and other affairs, and to them all the public is grateful for two evenings of first class entertainment. So much was accomplished in two short weeks.
